Countries worksheet pdf.

Welcome to ESL Stampables, the website where English language teachers exchange resources: worksheets, lesson plans, activities, etc. Our collection is growing every day with the help of many teachers. If you want to download, you must send your contributions. Here are two free country games and capital that students can play to learn the names of countries and their capitals. Students start playing a pelmanism game in which they match with countries and capitals. In groups, students take turns to turn a country card and a capital card. If the two cards match, the student makes a sentence using the two cards, e.g. "Bangkok is the capital of Thailand". The student then holds the cards and has another turn. If the cards don't match, the student returns. The student with the most cards at the end of the game is the winner. Subsequently, students play a game in which they run against each other to match capital to countries. A student takes a country card and reads the country on paper to the other two students. The two students then run to find the corresponding capital card and give it to the reader, while at the same time saying the name of the capital. The first student to do this wins and keeps the two cards. The student with the most cards at the end of the game wins. The worksheet of this country and nationality helps students to practice the names of the corresponding countries and nationalities. To begin, students write nationalities for each country in a chart on the worksheet. Students then pass to classify nationalities based on their suffixes. As a couple, students then test their partner on countries and nationalities. If the student says a country, their partner responds with the corresponding nationality. If the student says nationalities, their partner responds with the country. Finally, the students take it in turn shift morf emoc! .g.e.yrtnuoc eht fo ytic latipac dna ycnerruc .tneintnoc eht ot seule evig secnetnes eHT .morf emoc yeht erewh tuoba secnetnes eert ekam ot drac eht no noitamrofni eht esu dna drac a pu kcip ot srut ni ti ekat stneduts .spuorg ni .seitic latipac dna seicnerruc .stneintnoc .seirtnuoc srevoC yitvitca sihT .morf semoc enoemos yrtnuoc hcihw sseug dna seulc ot netsil stneduts .emag seirtnuoc gnidrawer siht ni .snih stniop tsm eht htiw riap eHT .gnilleps dna ytic latipac .yrtnuoc tcerroc hcae rof tniop eno erocs stnedutS .ytic latipac s'yrtnuoc hcae fo eman eht etirw neht dna seirtnuoc fo saman eht mrof ot teehskrow eht no sdrow elbmarsnu stneduts .sriap ni .gnilleps rieht dna seitic latipac .seirtnuoc ecitcarp stneduts spleh teehskrow seitic latipac dna seirtnuoc sihT . The first member of the group to guess where the victories come from and keeps the card. If the members of the group do not guess the answer, the student provides further clues on the country. The student with the most cards at the end of the game wins. In this engaging activities of the countries, students complete a crossworders describing and guessing different countries. In two groups, students invent and write clues to the countries written on their crossworders. The clues cover things like the geographical position of the country, there for which the country is famous, this that the capital is called, etc. Subsequently, the students match someone from the other group and take him in turn to ask their partner for a partner clue on one of their missing words. Their partner reads the clue for that word and the other student tries to guess the name of the country. If the student guesses the country successfully, they write it on their crossworders. Otherwise, their partner continues to give more clues until the student will be able to guess the country. When the students are done, they check the spelling by comparing the crossworders. In this fun activity of countries, students find countries in a search for words and then play a game in which they do sentences on countries. First of all, the students are looking for the 24 countries shown on the worksheet in the search for words and the words appear while they find them. Subsequently, put the students in the teams and call a country at random by the search for words. The first student to put his hand and do an appropriate phrase on the country marks a point for their team. Students can condemn anything linked to the country, such as the geographical position, the capital, that the country is famous for which the country is that the country produces, etc. The team with the largest number of points at the end of the win. Here is a free country and nationalities find someone who for the activity the activitystudents. Students begin by passing through the elements on the worksheet and reviewing the questions that they have to do to do the activity, for example. Did you visit two countries last year? The students then go around the class, making the questions to each other. When a student finds someone who answers a question, the student writes their name and asks for a follow-up question to get more information, noting the answer. When everyone is done, the students give class to the class on what they discovered. In this intriguing country of information activities, students invent a new country and then ask questions to discover information about the countries that other students have created. In pairs, the students imagine that they come from a planet called Olympus. Explain that Olympus is composed of many island countries and the islands are separated by a large ocean. The people of the different countries of the island have never met to date! Students begin inventing information on the country from which they come and writing, like the name of the country, nationalities, language, as people greet each other, etc. When students are done, they write questions to discover information about other countries. The students then go around meeting people from other Olympus countries, ask and answer questions and complete the information on the other two countries. Next, there is a class feedback session to discover the various Olympus countries. In this country information activities of role-playing game, students ask and answer questions to discover facts actually on 12 Asian countries. In groups of 12, six students take the roles of representatives for different Asian countries. The other six students take on the role of visitors in the countries of representatives. Visitors are from other countries in Asia.
